MYTH UNDERSTANDINGS

When Sal, of SQP Inc., called me to let me know that it was past time to put together another REFLECTIONS OF Мутн SKETCHBOOK, I nearly panicked. I knew he was right and a lot of fans were asking me about it, so I had to agree with him...only trouble was that

I hardly had any sketches available. About the time the first Reflections of MYTH was published. I went back under contract with TSR Inc. and worked for them for about two and a half years. The big problem with working for TSR, is that they own all rights to your art. Well, it didn't work out and in February of 1996 I went freelance again. I think I'm just a freelancer at heart and can't help it. All the sketches and paintings that I did during those couple of years belonged to TSR. There was my problem. I had no sketches lying around the studio, that I owned the rights to. Sal says, "So do new ones." Hey, Sal, I gotta make a living, I just can't sit around here for days and sketch for my health...but Sal is pretty persuasive. He said that I should do some cutie girl drawings whenever I had a few spare minutes...spare minutes - HA! But this did give me an excuse to draw some cutie girls. I told Betty, my wife, that it was work and I would get paid for it when the sketchbooks sell. She gave me that look, that all husbands know, and said, "Sure, I understand, you just want to draw half-naked women." "OH NO, Betty," I cried, "It's WORK and you know how that Sal is...he's MAKING me do this, no artist wants to draw cutie girls". I don't think she bought it...but Sal didn't let up...he threatened me, something about his New Jersey relatives, Uncle "Fat" Tony and some cousins may have to make a little trip to Kentucky and do a little hillbilly hunting...Betty still didn't buy this, but I did...so here goes, Reflections of MYTH VOLUME 2... loaded with cutie girls.

Hope you enjoy this sketchbook, and if you don't like cutie girl drawings feel free to write my wife and
